The rumour was prevalent that a Colonel in the French army had been lent to the Mandarins, and would arrive shortly for the purpose of organising a force to operate against the insurgents. It was possible that the British radial scheme might provide the provincial troops with an asylum during the progress of organisation, but it seemed improbable that the troops thus raised would be able to take the field in sufficient time to prevent the insurgents overrunning the Fuhkein province and levying contributions on the Ten districts. A system of robbery by means of saps from the drains had become prevalent in this colony, and had resulted in the rifling of the treasury of one of the Banks. Unless checked, this evil was likely to injure the commercial interests of the port. I From Japan the intelligence was a perfect black the new year festivities and the cold weather had combined to put a check to tendal operations. Nothing was known of the expedition sent by the Tyoun and loyal Daimins to chartise the Prince. The political events of the fortbight again pro-

The Taiping inegr gents still occupy Changohow, and do not appear for the present to run much risk of molestation from the Imperial authorities who are not adopting suitable mensuren to eject them. They will doub less commence the work of devastation and pillage so soon as the Spring shall be sufficiently far ad vanced to render the growing crops valuable. In surrection and anarchy in other parts of the Empige appear as prevalent as ever if not more so. The Futai Ld of Bucchew notorioty is said to have nan de Imperial Commissioner, for the purpose of quelling on insurrection in that quarter. Matters must be serious or a man of his renown would be reserved for pressing emergennics -still nothing is known as to the pature of the insurrection referred to. The Mahometan rebels in the province of Hupeh and Shantung have gained material successee, and are evidently causing the Imperial government much anxiety. The Imperial soldiers a Jangebow have mutinied and a portion of the Shanghai disciplified force has been organily da Snot appears to be the present post ure of fairs, the Imperial government, with all the means and appliances conceivable at their disposal, continking as apathetic and determinedly helpless as ignorance, superstition, and repellence can ren-

It is true there is a camp of instruction established near Shangbai under the able management of Major Jebb of H. The anticipation has not of the above Company at this Port, are Prepared been realised, and the value in the market has fale to grant Policies against Fire to the extent len. There was be no doubt the concern will be £10,000 on Buildings or on Recods stored sherein. a paying on if proparly conducted, as the local support will be considerable. Trade continues dull. The supply of Tea and Silk is almost axhausted. Exchange is lower.

Rice is enhanced in value owing to the failure of the crops and to the difficulty of procuring the article at the Ries ports. The expert of Cotton is checked owing to the native demand and to the much shorter supply than was anticipated. Tonnage is plentiful and cheap.
